B.E Project and Trainings

- Minor Project: IR sensor based remote control switch.
It is a switch which works on the radiation received by the IR sensor and accordingly perform the operation. With the use of this switch we can control the home appliances from certain distance.
- Major Project: Noise level monitoring with notification system.
It is basically a system with audio-frequency sensing capabilities that is controlled essentially by a microcontroller in turn measuring, comparing and regulating audio signals. When the recorded sound is proportional to the threshold value notification to the supervisor is given through GSM module to his/her mobile phone. This all in bid to help in maintaining silence in the library.
- Training: At Indian Railway DRM office, Bhusaval. Duration from 12th of July 2014 up to 20th of July 2014. There I studied different type of electrical and electronics systems, their working and maintenance.
